Dear Mr. Angeleno or is Hi Militant

Love your fantastic research on the Red Car line heritage. You've done an amazing amount of digging around for information. I take to heart your command ... to go out and visit these locations yourself, to see with your own eyes and experience the ghosts of the Pacific Electric first-hand. Your map is a fantastic resource.

I'm with a group called MaptimeLA which encourages and helps people to make maps for the betterment of LA. One project that we've been working on is to map the extant restaurants based on the list that Nikki Kreuzer put together Offbeat L.A.: The Oldest Surviving Los Angeles Restaurants... A Master List of the Vintage, Historic and Old School. Our effort so far is headquartered here: https://github.com/maptimeLA/old-la-restaurants/blob/master/data/historic\_restaurants.geojson. One of the things we want to do is put a time line and show the restaurants opening up. And then we saw your Red Car site thought, wow, it would be great to show the opening and closing of the Red Car line. We'd like your permission to add your Red Car information to the map. Of course, we'd credit you and update you as we go along.

Hope to hear from you. And you're welcome to come to our meetings or maybe you already are. MaptimeLA \(Los Angeles, CA\) - Meetup
